Practical AI for Local Governments

TOWN OF COMOX / CASE STUDY

New conversations. Practical possibilities.

A digital transformation workshop helped the Comox team explore how different tools and processes could support staff and better serve residents.

01 STARTING POINT

The Town of Comox hosted a workshop focused on using digital tools to support its business processes. The opportunity was to connect new applications with everyday municipal work and consider where different approaches could help.

02 PROCESS

Daphne Thomson shared applications and experiences from working with AI in local government. She discussed both successes and challenges, giving staff practical context for exploring new tools and considering how they could apply to the Town's work.

03 END POINT

The workshop sparked new conversations and encouraged staff to consider new possibilities. In his follow-up letter, CAO Jordan Wall identified significant opportunities to improve processes and confirmed the team's eagerness to build on the ideas presented.

"Your openness and enthusiasm brought great energy to the discussion, and we are eager to build upon the ideas you presented."
